SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1875.

A Dastardly Outrage.

Last Sunday evening, between 7 and 8 o'clock Mrs. McGulpin, who resides in the town of Beaugrand, was on her way home from Mr. Champagne's, accompanied by a little boy and girl and a daughter of Mr. Champagne's, she was fired upon by some miscreant. So close was the would-be assassin that the powder from the discharge burned Mrs. McGulpin's face. With this exception, and a severe fright, she was not injured. She then returned to Mr. Champagne's where she remained all night, fearing to go home, on account of her husband having gone to his work at Nelson, Strohn & Co.'s mill. A man reported to be from the vicinity of Grand Haven, and who has been roaming around Beaugrand, is suspected to be the guilty person. The officers went in search of the suspected party, but failed to find any trace of him. The citizens of Beaugrand are very greatly excited about this affair, and we understand that two or three families have moved into Cheboygan, fearing to remain in Beaugrand. Such outrages as this should meet with swift and sure punishment, and we trust that the officers will yet secure the desperado.

Wednesday evening the officers learned that the suspected man was at Jim Cram's, who lives in a cabin just above Vincent's point. About 10 o'clock Sheriff Paquette, Deputy Alfie and several citizens started to make the arrest in boats. Arriving at their destination they surrounded the house and soon had their man in custody. He was lodged in jail. He gave his name as Woods and told several conflicting stories from which it is gathered that he left Grand Haven and has been secreting himself in this vicinity on account of some crime committed there. As far as can be ascertained there is not enough evidence to convict him of shooting at Mrs. McGulpin, but a dispatch has been sent to Grand Haven to ascertain if he is wanted there. If not it is probable that he will be discharged.

To Go Abroad.

Mr. John McKay has purchased the pleasure yacht Nightingale, of Duncan City parties, for Col. E. F. Brown, governor of the National Soldiers' Home in Dayton, O. Col. Brown saw the Nightingale during his recent visit to Cheboygan, and was so pleased with her appearance that he determined to purchase her. Not being able to effect a purchase while here, he left the matter in the hands of Mr. McKay who has secured the boat, and will ship it to Col. Brown on the Marine City to-day. The Nightingale is one of the finest little craft ever built upon the straits, and will be an honor to send abroad. Col. Brown will christen the boat "Chief Justice Waite," in honor of that gentleman, who is an ex officio member of the Board of Directors of the Home.

Mr. McKay has also purchased for the "zoological gardens" of the Home, the fine pet beaver from Thomas Jarney of this place, which will be sent to Col. Brown with the boat. This will be a valuable addition to the already large collection of animals at that place.

Shipping Notes.

The shipping business has been more than usually lively this week, enough so to make up for any deficiency last week. There has been no time during the week but that several vessels have been in port. The schooner J. E. Bailey was loaded with lumber by Barclay & Co., and cleared for Chicago on Monday.

Nelson & Bullen have loaded two vessels during the week. The A. Mosher cleared for Chicago on Tuesday, and the Kate Gillet cleared for the same port on Thursday.

McArthur, Smith & Co., loaded the schooners Edward Harvey and the Harvey Bissell. Both cleared for Chicago.

The bark Cavalier arrived on Monday loaded with building stone consigned to P. and D. McKee, and proceeded to load with square timber for the Canada market for the same parties. They also loaded at the same time the Magellan.

IN THEIR PLACE AGAIN.

For the first time in over six months the choir of the Congregational Church were last Sunday in their places again. This was a surprise to many who had not heard of the arrangement and a pleasure to every attendant upon the church services. They will hereafter join in the church services, and add much to their enjoyment as well as to their usefulness. The choir is at present constituted as follows, and is an excellent one: Mrs. T. A. Perrin, organist and soprano; Miss Mary Brannock, soprano; Mrs. C. S. Ramsey, alto; J. J. Barker, tenor; C. S. Ramsey, bass. It is expected that there will be some additions made to the choir.

ACCIDENT.

Thursday afternoon a man named Porter, working in Nelson, Strohn & Co.'s mill, had his hand cut on the butting saw. He commenced working for the firm at noon and before four o'clock met with the accident. It was not, however, of a very serious nature.

The Free Seat Question.

(To the Editor.)

I will try and answer "Inquirer" in last week's TRIBUNE. It strikes me as very probable that "Inquirer" has had very little experience in church affairs and their management, especially in the financial part thereof, or he would have been better posted. That the minister's salary should be promptly paid is a necessity to the welfare of every church. How can this money be the easiest raised? I answer emphatically by renting the pews. There are many who will pay for a seat who will pay no other way. If the seats are to be rented, should it not be in the manner which will bring the most money? When they are put up at auction the most desirable seats command a high price. In this way the church expenses are most easily met, and no injustice done to any one. Strangers and non-church-goers are always made welcome by pew holders, and there are always vacant pews enough to accommodate all who desire to come.

There are other advantages. Every pew-holder is sure of a regular seat for himself and family, which is much preferable, and more comfortable than having to occupy a different seat every week. If he chances to come in late he is not subjected to the annoyance of having to look around for a seat.

There is scarcely a church where all the seats are rented. Those which are not so disposed of, can be left free, and thus practically have all the advantages the advocates of free seats claim. K. T. O.

Duncan City Pendings.

The Montgomery called in, bound up, Thursday noon.

The shift in one of the gangs in the large mill broke Thursday.

The tug Chas. L. DeCouninc has been undergoing some slight repairs.

Thompson Smith returned from Buffalo Sunday morning via Potoskey and Mackinac.

About one and a half million feet of lumber has been shipped from this port during the week, which leaves the docks looking somewhat bare.

Mr. A. McKay, the Deputy Collector, has put up two new signs for the custom house, the first which have been used since the establishment of the office some seven years ago.

Mr. Calhoun, the head clerk in charge of the mercantile department of Mr. Smith's business, returned last Saturday evening on the propeller St. Albans after an absence of three weeks. If we may judge from appearances he enjoyed himself hugely.

TO BE REBUILT.

The exhibit works on Mullett Lake which were burned a few weeks since are to be rebuilt by Mr. Newton in company with his brother. The Truett took up a raft of timber and lumber Sunday night preparatory to commencing rebuilding at once. Workmen are already engaged in getting out the necessary heavy timber. It is the intention to have the building completed and ready to resume operations in the spring. This will be good news to all the residents in that vicinity as well as to all those interested in the prosperity of this country.

A NEW ARRANGEMENT.

The mail tug Eva English, Capt. Alex. Lehot, will hereafter make regular trips to and from Mackinac three times a week—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. He has reduced the price to fifty cents a trip each way. The English also makes trips to Point St. Ignace and carries passengers to that place from Mackinac for twenty-five cents. These popular prices will no doubt largely increase travel.

M. E. CONFERENCE.

The Michigan Conference, to which this charge belongs, commences its fourth session at Battle Creek next Wednesday and will probably continue a week. It will be an unusually large session, composed of about 225 ministers and an electoral conference of 221 laymen, who meet at the same place on Friday, September 10th, to elect two laymen to represent them in the general conference which meets in St. Louis, Mo., May 1876.

THE SEA BREEZE.

The August number of a little magazine with the above name has been received and read with much interest and pleasure by the editor of this paper. It is published monthly at Indianapolis, Ind., by Masters Ernest Merritt and Harry Coughlen. The appearance and contents of this number show much care and indicate that the editors will yet make their mark in the editorial world.

THANKS TO THE PRESS.

The TRIBUNE has received a very cordial welcome from the press throughout the state, and been favored with many very flattering notices, which we have preserved for the purpose of printing. The crowded condition of our columns with matters we deemed of more importance to our readers, has compelled us to defer their publication. The papers noticing our enterprise will please accept our thanks. We appreciate their favors fully.

FLOWING WELL.

The Spencer House has just succeeded in obtaining a magnificent flowing well, one of the best in the village. It is just what was needed.

TILL TAPPED.

Wednesday, about noon, the till in O'Connors' saloon was relieved of about $12 under somewhat singular circumstances. Mr. O'Connors thinking it was about noon closed his saloon and went to the Benton House for dinner. Arriving there he was told that dinner was not ready, so he immediately returned to the saloon. He was not gone over ten minutes, but in that time some one had entered and stolen the money.

LOOKING UP.

Mr. J. F. Hall has just returned from Detroit where he has been selecting goods for the fall and winter trade. He has put in a large stock of stoves intending hereafter to make a specialty of this branch of the business. He will also manufacture stovepipes, having purchased machinery and employed a man for that purpose. This would indicate that the stove trade was looking up in Cheboygan.

ACCIDENT.

Monday morning last, Mr. Geo. P. Langdon, while engaged at the shingle mill of the firm of which he is a member, was standing near the "log-jack," when one of the dogs in a log they were drawing out of the boom pulled out and flew back with considerable force striking Mr. Langdon on the shoulder, inflicting a painful bruise, but fortunately breaking no bones.

THE STATE LANDS.

The last Legislature made provisions for a review of the state swamp lands and agricultural college lands. This is now being done in some sections of the state, and the agents in the mean time are looking up the trespass cases which are quite frequent. This country will probably receive a visit ere long.

ARRIVED.

Williams & Co.'s dredge No. 2, for which the tug Eliza Williams started to Houghton after last week, arrived Thursday evening. She is not as heavy a dredge as the one here before, but seems to be a fine one in every respect. She is at present undergoing some repairs but will be at work on Monday at the furthest.

FISHING PARTY.

The fishing party, consisting of Messrs. James H. Buchanan, Chas. H. Diehl and Chas. E. Mould, of Chicago, and Theo. Rhodes of Columbus, O., who arrived last week and proceeded at once to Mullett Lake to camp and fish, returned on Thursday and reported plenty of fish and fun.

THE MOLLER SHOOTING AFFAIR.

The latest advices show that Albert Moller who was shot at Rogers City and afterward taken to Alpena for medical treatment is likely to recover. An operation has been performed by Dr. Maiden of that place, which is likely to prove successful.

LATEST PATENTS.

The following is a list of patents issued from the United States Patent Office to citizens of Michigan for the week ending August 29th:

Those of Messrs. W. Thompson, Detroit; Hop-Faston, Saginaw; Spaulding, Peterburg; Yehle, Port Huron; R. Hunt, Allouez; Snow, Edwards & J. Smith, Orionville; K. B. Burns, J. O. Smith and P. Walker, Muskegon.

McKEAN-CAMPBELL.

This excellent organized company have billed this place for three entertainments next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening. They will open with Canille, which is one of Miss McKean's best impersonations.

CHURCH SERVICES.

At the Congregational Church Sunday, the subject is the morning will be "Christian Perfection." In the evening, "Faith and Its Opposite."

New wheat has made its appearance in this market. It is of a good quality.

Some clothes were taken from the line in Mrs. McKean's yard on Tuesday night.

The St. Joe was on time this week with her usual compliment of freight and passengers.

Williams & Co.'s dredge No. 2 will commence work on Monday.

George W. Cuyler, of the firm of McArthur, Smith & Co., arrived on the North Star Thursday morning.

Mr. P. M. Lathrop has had a cut of his building engraved, which will hereafter adorn his letter heads, bill heads, &c.

Mr. Cram arrived on the St. Joe Wednesday night. It is uncertain when he will have another dredge in operation here.

The sea was so high this morning that the "dumps" could not be emptied, therefore the dredge had to suspend operations.

Mr. Geo. Roblin shipped six hundred large telegraph poles to Sandusky on the St. Joe. They are for the Pennsylvania railroad company.

The McKean-Campbell combination close their summer season at Mackinac next Monday night with the great spectacular drama of "The Sea of Ice."

Is it not about time some efforts were made to secure a new bridge across the river? The present one, granting that it is perfectly safe, is an unsightly affair and no credit to the place.

The Marine City failed to pay either Cheboygan or Duncan a call this morning. Being a little late, together with a heavy sea, probably induced her to make a call on her down trip suffice.

A Plea for Whistling Girls.

"Whistling girls and growing men. Always come to some bad end."

Whence comes this choice morsel of verse? Myriads of authors whose writings are less widely known, whose sentiments are infinitely less accepted, whose ingeniously gotten up theories are less universally practiced, are enfolded and exalted by volumes of well written books and articles. All informed persons are conversant with their lives and words, and have at command whole pages of their sayings. How is it then that we have not the name of the talented and truly practical individual who wrote the above. It embellishes not the literary chronicles of any land or nation. One might, from its extreme uniqueness of expression and conception, be reminded to turn over the pages of Saner literature, for it is without doubt a creation of ancient days. This is conclusive from its bold ignorance of the popular question of to-day. There is something almost pitiful in the complete and utter fearlessness with which the author shows himself opposed to "woman's rights." Thus in the researches which have been made into its origin, this has been of palpable assistance in showing that it was useless to look into modern literature of any land. In its attempt to poetize the objects of every day life, one recognizes a characteristic and favorite plan of Wordsworth, who as poet laureate of England preceded Tennyson. But the fact mentioned above is unsurmountable proof that the author was of much more ancient extraction. With the bold genius of a Byron, with the simplicity of style peculiar to Goldsmith, fraught with the beauty of Shelly, so deep and still that it ambles on the edge of sublimity, and yet with that quaint and quiet humor akin to the creations of Washington Irving, it floats down to us from the past apparently without parent or origin.

There were Greeks of the old mythological days, we would whisper "tis of the gods." Thus it weaves about it a garment of mystery, deep and marvelous, which covering no labor or earnest research has yet been able to lift from it. Its very age has wrought about it something of the weird and superstitious which renders its influence deep and subtle.

Certain it is that somebody in days gone by has done, said, or written something in dispar of whistling girls, and it had its influence too, for without some ailing and impelling force the prejudice against them, could never have reached its present point, and the above is the only production of that tenor extant, or certainly the only one generally quoted.

Why don't girls whistle? That is, why is popular opinion against it? Is it because of the influence of this couplet? Or do I hear some one answer, "Because boys do." (Ah, well, I confess boys are an ill class of beings whose habits it would not always be well to follow.) "Because boys do." Well, boys eat, that is no reason why girls should not. If any girl thinks so I would that she try the practice of her opinion; the result would be in every way beneficial to the race at large. Boys comb their hair, boys blow their noses,
